

who await our verdict beneath the aid of France.

Those who do not care to tell you the truth about the League of Nations tell you that Article X, of the covenant of the league would make it possible for other nations to lead us into war, whether we would it or not. This is absolutely false. There is nothing in the covenant which in the least interferes with or impairs the right of Congress to declare war or not declare war, according to its own independent judgment, as our Constitution provides.

Those who drew the covenant of the league were careful that it should contain nothing which interfered with or impaired the constitutional arrangements of any of the great nations which are to constitute its members. They would have been amazed and indignant at the things that are now being ignorantly said about this great and sincere document.

The whole world will wait for your verdict in November, as it would wait for an intimation of what the future is to be.

WOODROW WILSON.

COX PUTS WILSON'S LEAGUE IN THE LEAD

Governor and Running Mate Agree It Is Only Argument They Can Fall Back On.

INDIANA FOR HARDING

Dry Speeches Part of Plan to Catch Vote of Women and Churchgoers.

By a Staff Correspondent of THE HERALD.

DATTON, Oct. 3.—League of Nations is to be the overshadowing issue during the remainder of the Democratic Presidential campaign, it was decided today at a conference between Gov. Cox and his running mate, Franklin D. Roosevelt. There will be talk about the Senatorial oligarchy, a continuation of the charge that "big business" is seeking control of the Government, and a discussion of the progress against reaction, but in a most secondary way.

The Democratic nominees are willing to rest their case on the League of Nations, believing that its appeal to the women, the churchfolk and the educators of the country offers their only chance to win the election.

Mr. Roosevelt boarded Cox's train at Terre Haute and rode as far as Indianapolis, during which time they were in conference. Gov. Cox continued on his way to Dayton, Ohio, where he arrived tonight, and Mr. Roosevelt went back to Terre Haute, where he was to get back on his private car and go stumping in Missouri, Kansas and Colorado. Gov. Cox is to remain here for a rest until Wednesday. He was greeted by a large crowd of "town folk" on his arrival.

The conference between the Democratic Presidential and Vice-Presidential nominees referred to Gov. Cox's experience in the Far West, and Mr. Roosevelt's last week tour through Kentucky and West Virginia. They both agreed that the League of Nations had turned out to be their best campaign argument, picturing the covenant as a definite means of ending war and representing Senator Harding as taking a wobbly stand on the issue.

What Wilson Long Has Urged.

That decision means that President Wilson is finally to have his way for a "sacred referendum" on the League of Nations. Up to now it is the whole thing. That is what President Wilson wanted from the start, but those at the head of the Democratic campaign have not been so sure regarding Gov. Cox as an anti-Wilson nominee. They believed the campaign should be waged so as to play down the league as much as possible, not discarding it altogether but appealing for votes on the grounds that the "Senator's oligarchy" sought control and that progress should win over what was branded Republican reaction.

This plan of campaign, admittedly, has not done what was expected of it and so the League of Nations has been fallen back upon as the appealing issue. To do this it is the Democratic programme to be exceedingly "dry" so as not to alienate the vote of the women, church folk and educators. Gov. Cox in recent declarations on the prohibition, saw that trend, and there will be more talk of prohibition in the series of speeches that are to follow.

The women have been suspicious of Gov. Cox as a "wet," and it has been hurting his arguments for the League of Nations, made on the grounds of everlasting peace and international happiness. This mode of campaigning is rejected not in the Presidential campaign alone but in State campaigns which the Democrats are waging.

In Indiana, through which Gov. Cox travelled today on his way to Dayton, Thomas Tamm, the Democratic Senatorial nominee, has come out as a dry. He took this stand in a letter to a group of Crawfordsville women, according to the word that reached the Cox campaign train, and is depending on the vote of the women to pull him through in the fight with Senator Watson.

There is then word also that the Democratic prospects in Indiana are not so rosy as they were in August when Gov. Cox made two trips into the State. There has been a shift of sentiment, and now it seems that the Republicans have the edge. An Indianapolis newspaper political writer, who has been all over the State trying to sound out the sentiment, told THE NEW YORK HERALD correspondent that if the election were held today Indiana would go 50,000 for Senator Harding. Indiana is to be one of the centres of the campaign during the next four weeks. Senator Harding is to be there October 15 and 16, and Gov. Cox will be just ahead of him. Taft, Hoover, McAdoo, Hughes and others will be in Indiana too.

League Issue Grows Stronger.

"When I started out campaigning," Mr. Roosevelt told Gov. Cox, "I usually asked the local State leaders what I ought to talk about. They suggested labor and various other subjects, but I said the League of Nations arguments should not be too strong. Now the first thing they ask me to talk about is the League of Nations. I am convinced that interest in the League is more intense than the campaign has an end."

Mr. Roosevelt declared that West Virginia and Kentucky were, in his opinion, safely Democratic. He told having spoken to large crowds, adding the Democratic organizations there were functioning in good shape. The lack of effective Democratic organization in some of the States is a Democratic handicap.

Gov. Cox greeted several large crowds at stations where his train stopped, but owing to the fact that it was Sunday made no political speeches. He thanked the crowds for coming to see him, but that was all.

Upon arrival in Dayton Gov. Cox issued a statement reviewing his Western trip. It was intensely political, declaring that the West was waking up to the conspiracy of silence, which he attributed to the "Senatorial oligarchy."

He declared that information regarding the League of Nations had been withheld from the people.

Gov. Cox said: "Apparently every campaign following the Westward trip. It was intensely political, declaring that the West was waking up to the conspiracy of silence, which he attributed to the 'Senatorial oligarchy.'

ANTI-SUFFS RENEW FIGHT.

Move Today Directed to Get Case Into Supreme Court.

SPECIAL DESPATCH TO THE HERALD.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Anti-suffragists will begin another effort to-morrow to counteract the issuance of the proclamation of the suffrage amendment being effective and to prevent women from taking part in the elections next month. To-morrow the anti-suffragists in the District Court of Appeals will ask for advancement of their injunction case so that the Senatorial candidate for the Supreme Court of the United States before November 2. The District Attorney here has before the Court of Appeals already a motion to dismiss the case.

NEW COMMITTEE WORKS FOR MILLER

One Thousand Enthusiastic Republicans Form Auxiliary Campaign Body.

W. C. BREED IS CHAIRMAN

Bankers and Merchants Are Among the Members Now on the List.

Former Judge Nathan L. Miller in his campaign for the Governorship of this State is to have the help of a citizens' committee of one thousand, whose membership will include leading Republicans of the city. Judge Miller will spend most of the next week in the metropolitan district and the new committee will back up the State and county organizations in seeing that he gets a big reception.

William C. Breed is chairman of the new organization. Charles E. Hughes, George F. Baker, Otto T. Bannard and hundreds of others of prominence are members in this State through this new committee. While there never has been any doubt about what New York State would do in the autumn election, the enthusiastic Republicans who are not actively connected with organization politics are making special effort to pick up the loose ends which the regular workers may overlook.

The Miller committee will devote a great part of its energies this week to getting out the voters to register. Announcement of the purpose of the committee says:

"The committee will stress the fact that a change of political management in the State is as necessary as in the nation. We will impress upon the voters that their duty is to support candidates who will best represent and carry out sound policies of government for which Judge Miller prominently stands."

Among the members of the committee are Stephen Baker, W. Warren Barbour, Cornelius N. Bliss, W. D. Breaker, O. H. Cheney, Ralph Day, Newman E. Drake, Lucius R. Eastman, Joseph E. Schieren, Jacob H. Schoonmaker, Walter Scott, Joseph Seaman, William Skinner, Thomas W. Stearns, Lorillard Spencer, E. J. Steer, Louis Stern, J. P. Stevens, Walbridge Taft, W. H. Taylor, Frank Tilford, H. K. Twichell, Thomas F. Victor, Harry E. Ward, Ridley Watts, John J. Watson, Jr., Travis H. Whitney, D. W. Whitmore, George W. Wickersham, C. M. Whitman, Theodore F. Whitmarsh, William R. Wilcox, Henry A. Wise and James Wright.

MILLER INSISTS ON SMITH'S DRY VIEWS

Asks Governor if Latter Would Sign a State Enforcement Measure.

HE EXPECTS TO DO SO

Attitude on an Ocean Ship Route to the Great Lakes Also Is Attacked.

By a Staff Correspondent of THE HERALD.

SYRACUSE, Oct. 3.—Nathan L. Miller, Republican nominee for Governor, added today two more interrogations to the list of questions propounded to Gov. Alfred E. Smith in an effort to compel the Democratic candidate to come out flatfooted and tell the people of the State where he stands on important issues.

One of those questions is: Where does Gov. Smith stand on the enforcement of prohibition?

The other is: Does Gov. Smith still favor the plank in the Democratic national platform, which he helped to draft, pledging the party for the construction of an ocean ship route from the great lakes via the St. Lawrence River, the effect of which would be to wreck the usefulness of New York State's Erie barge canal?

Judge Miller's plan for enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment is by the State rather than by Federal agents, which end he proposes to accomplish by the enactment of a State statute empowering peace officers of the counties, municipalities and the State to enforce the law.

"I have arrived at this conclusion as the only practical, effective and satisfactory way of enforcing the prohibition amendment after most careful consideration," said Judge Miller. "It seems impossible to enforce the law under the present method except by the sending of a veritable army of Federal agents into this State. I do not think that is practicable, nor do I believe that the people of this State want Federal officers standing on every street corner to enforce a summary law."

"The Supreme Court of the United States has held that the prohibition amendment cannot be modified as to its scope by State enactment, but that States may enact legislation for the enforcement of the amendment. As long as it is the law it must be enforced as any other law."

"If I am elected Governor of this State I expect to sign a bill giving this State rest enforcement by the already established peace preserving machinery and through the power of the Governor to remove from office such officials as do not fulfill their duties. I propose to see that such a statute is enforced. That would involve no additional machinery or expense to that State."

"I ask Gov. Smith, if the next Legislature should pass such a bill, would he sign it, and would he see that it is enforced?"

Regarding his question of Gov. Smith's position on the St. Lawrence Canal, Judge Miller said:

"In response to my question as to whether he still stands by the Democratic national platform which he helped to draft in San Francisco, Gov. Smith has replied that he still stands upon it. I take it that he meant to include the plank which pledges—the word pledges as used—the party to the St. Lawrence project, yet I can hardly conceive a person having the real interests of the State at heart taking such a position. If the Democrats should be able to carry out the St. Lawrence project it would have the effect of cutting down the business at both terminals of the barge canal and at all intervening points. It would have a decidedly ill effect upon the supplementing of rail service and the competition with rail rates which the commerce and cost of living of this State sorely need."

"The State of New York would be called upon to bear more than one-fourth of the expense of the construction of the St. Lawrence project, and that project in turn would constitute a serious impairment to an investment of more than $175,000,000, which the taxpayers of this State will have made in the barge canal upon its completion with terminals."

Judge Miller rested at his home in Syracuse today. He will speak in Rome to-morrow night, and then will spend three days campaigning in Nassau, Suffolk and Westchester counties.

GOV. SMITH TO START CITY CAMPAIGN TO-DAY

Will Tip Off His Spellbinders on What to Say.

The Democratic State campaign in New York city will open to-day when Governor Smith meets the speakers' class of the Citizens' Committee this afternoon at the Biltmore Hotel. The Governor will tell the spellbinders what are the issues of the campaign as he sees them and what he would like to have emphasized on the Democratic stump. Instruction in public speaking will be given daily at the Biltmore Headquarters.

Pamphlets will begin campaigning with a big mass meeting in the Fourteenth street headquarters next Friday evening. Bourke Cockran will preside.

The Democratic National Committee made public yesterday a telegram from James H. Lee, nominee for Representative in Detroit, denying that he and other candidates in his State are opposed to the League of Nations and Governor Cox.

HONDURAN REVOLUTION AGAIN

Movement Preparing on Coast and Authorities Ready.

SAN SALVADOR, Oct. 3.—Advices from Honduras report that a revolutionary movement is being prepared on the northern Honduran coast.

The authorities in the region are said to be taking thorough precautionary measures.

GRANDMOTHER'S SILK DRESS

You have heard of that wonderful silk, so stiff the dress would stand alone, handed down in the family, and seeming never to wear out.

That was the way they made silks in those days. Competition was not so keen then. People who could afford silk dresses at all bought nothing but the best.

And so with writing paper. When Crane & Co. began they made paper that was really too good for many uses to which it was put, but it was the only paper there was. It was used for everything.

Crane & Co. went on making that kind of paper, while other manufacturers found ways of making cheaper papers, plenty good enough for many uses.

Meanwhile governments, financial institutions, engravers, learned that when a paper for some very important purpose was desired, Crane & Co. were still making paper with that old-fashioned durability.

So CRANE'S Bond is today carrying the bulk of the important business of the world.

To Indignant Americans!

With a feeling of resentment which has grown to righteous indignation, loyal Americans read the press reports describing the disorder which marred the Tercentenary Celebration of the Landing of the Pilgrim Fathers at Carnegie Hall, Wednesday evening.

Under the cloak of assumed Americanism a band of men and women, whose repeated actions indicate that they feel for America only as it serves their sinister purpose, deliberately interfered with a peaceful gathering which had sacred significance to all who love America.

This incident is only typical of others throughout the country, planned with cunning care and with the same destructive intent by the Sinn Fein element.

Thinking of "themselves alone," these alien propagandists—supported by a huge fund voted for the purpose by the governing body of the so-called Irish Republic—seek to embroil our country in the domestic affairs of a great and friendly Power—to bring about a breach in the English speaking fellowship of nations. With overbearing presumption they resort to almost any method to accomplish this purpose: Intimidating voters—baiting public officers—staging "demonstrations" to foment discord.

Americans who fail to sympathize with this intrigue are branded as traitors to their own country.

Aroused and alarmed by this condition of affairs, a body of Americans organized the LOYAL COALITION in Boston—recognized center of Sinn Fein in the United States.

"The objects of the Loyal Coalition shall be to promote American welfare and ideals, to resist the movements of all alien or hyphenated groups seeking to dominate the country, disturb national harmony, or disrupt the friendly relations between the United States, the British Commonwealth, or other nations with which we were associated in the late World War."

The Loyal Coalition is sustained by the voluntary contributions of Americans. Its founders include many of Boston's most respected citizens. Organized in March of this year, it has already become the champion of this American movement, assistance coming to it from nearly every State in the Union.

During the short period of its existence, the Loyal Coalition has been constantly alert and active. It has carried on a frank, fearless advertising campaign in newspapers in Boston and other New England cities. Its officers—serving without remuneration—have been instrumental, if not responsible, in accomplishing much good. In Washington they contributed to the defeat of the insidious Mason and Hammill resolutions, which sought to have the United States recognize the so-called Irish Republic. At the political conventions in Chicago and San Francisco they successfully opposed an "Irish plank" in the party platforms. Just now the Coalition is making legal protest to the City of Boston to prevent its Council from using city money for Irish propaganda purposes.

Against the subtle intrigue of foreign propagandists the Loyal Coalition is on guard. The shameful spectacle at Carnegie Hall Wednesday night has drawn it to New York.

To express and otherwise serve the awakened patriotic sentiment of Greater New York and vicinity in such emergencies is one of the functions of the Loyal Coalition.

Americans—those who place America first—those who value her self-respect—are openly asked to help that the nation may be purged of the hyphen menace!

All contributions should be sent to Arthur W. Joslin, Treasurer, National Headquarters, 24 Mount Vernon street, Boston, Mass. Will YOU HELP NOW?
